As breasts get bigger in pregnancy as well as the belly and other parts of the body, they stretch the skin, often leaving it with stretch marks. Unfortunately, this cosmetic damage is irreversible, and the only possibility of avoiding it is intensive skin care in pregnancy. This is the reason why we suggest MUTTISOFT massage oil to all expectant mothers. It is made from a combination of vegetable oils with a high content of vitamins A, E, F which keep the strained skin soft and supple in the risky areas. To make the skin most elastic, it is recommended massaging the oil gently in the abdominal area, breasts and other critical parts of the body 2 times a day.

Main ingredients: Vegetable oils: almond, wheat germ, jojoba, walnut, karité. Lecithin.
Essential oils: lavender, geranium.
Vitamins A, E, F.

Tip: Maximum elasticity of the skin can be achieved through long-term application of MUTTISOFT. That is why it should be used from the 4th month on at the latest.

Application: Apply the required amount to the skin and rub or massage in gently.
